To Whom It May Concern:

My Ancestors are known by few. They never made it to the history books and some never got to the U.S. Census.

Ms. Herbert will help you identify your goals both by phone calls and written reports. She will explain the limitations of what you should expect versus your hopes. Financially, her updates will keep you feeling secure while also helping you to clarify your priorities.

The biggest thing she does that separates her from other genealogists that I've used is her synopsis at the end of her research. It not only gives you copies of the materials she has found but, also the explanations. Then she goes one step further in helping you understand who these people were, she lists what else could be done in the future.

I am grateful for her attention to details and my feelings.
